

RE: Inex Systems

I have been asked to write a letter of recommendation for Inex Systems by the owner Zebadiah Henry.

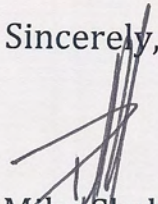

I have had an opportunity to work with Inex systems for the past three years. He was the installer in our commercial installation as well as our vendor for all our service needs during from 2009 until the present. Our company has had an opportunity to get to know Inex Systems and the employees over this three-year period.

Inex is a reliable vendor with excellent response times. As a medical facility our requirements for service are not in days but rather are in hours, and his company has always responded to our needs immediately. Our company had extensive installation work done by Zebadiah and his crew during construction of 11,500 square foot commercial building including an ambulatory surgery center which included all fire, security, phone, computer, sound and television. His work is excellent and on time. His work crews were professional and were a pleasure to work with. The service has been quick and he manages the standard upkeep requirements for our certifications. His company independently keeps up with the state and federal requirements that we must meet and have these performed yearly.

Since our first construction project, I have used Inex systems for other renovation jobs and continue to be just as impressed with the work product from this company. The work of Inex systems has been stellar during the three years that we have been using them for installation and maintenance. I can recommend him and his company to you without reservation.

Sincerely,
